

A Translator Bug

Due to a bug in the translator that we have been unable to track down, you may have gotten an error that looks something like this:

If that happens, just run the translator again. (If you run the translator by typing `control+t`, you'll have to select the module editor first.) That error should disappear, and the expected error should occur.

CLOSE