```
Divides(p, n) ==                    (*****************************)
       \E q \in Int :               (* For integers p and n, equals   *)
              n = q * p             (* TRUE iff p divides n -- which  ) ( I think is really neat; don't  *)
                                    (* you?                           *)
                                    (*****************************)
```

CLOSE